

Report of the United States Commissioner of Fisheries for the Fiscal Year 1938: With Appendixes (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Report of the United States Commissioner of Fisheries for the Fiscal Year 1938: With Appendixes The International Fisheries Commission continued the investigation of the life history of the Pacific halibut, and the investigation and regulation of the Pacific halibut fishery, under authority of the treaty of May 9, 1930, and the supplanting treaty of January 29, 1937. The new treaty, which invested the Commission with new powers and responsibilities, did not become effective until August.
