

The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis: Transactions of the Tenth Annual Meeting, Washington, D. C., May 7-8, 1914 (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis: Transactions of the Tenth Annual Meeting, Washington, D. C., May 7-8, 1914 Whereas, Dr. Livingston Farrand, who has served as Executive Secretary of The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis since January 15, 1905, or practically during the entire existence of the organization, has resigned to accept the presidency of the University of the State of Colorado, and Whereas, As Executive Secretary, Dr. Farrand has been largely responsible both for suggesting the lines of policy and work of The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis and for carrying into effect the policies and lines of activity approved by the Board of Directors, and Whereas, During the nine years of Dr. Farrands incumbency of the position of Executive Secretary The number of organizations engaged in the prevention of tuberculosis has increased from a very few to over 1200; the number of hospitals and sanatoria has increased to 550, with more than 35,000 beds; the number of dispensaries to 400; the number of visiting nurses to 3000; the number of open-air schools and fresh-air schools to over 200; and advanced laws dealing with the treatment and prevention of tuberculosis have been enacted in 45 States, and Whereas, These results are the most eloquent and conclusive justification possible of the policies suggested to the Association by Dr. Farrand during the early years of his incumbency of the position of executive secretary, therefore be it Resolved, That The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis hereby places on record an expression of its recognition of the far-reaching benefit and value to the people of the country as a whole of the services which Dr. Farrand has rendered as Executive Secretary of The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis during the past nine years; of its appreciation of the admirable spirit he has shown in all his dealings with the officers and members of the Association; of his exceptional far-sightedness and sagacity in meeting the problems that have arisen from year to year; of his unqualified devotion to the success of the cause; of his sound judgment on the wide variety of medical, scientific, social, political, and practical questions arising in its work; and of the very great regard and affection felt for him by every member of the Association who has had the pleasure of working with him, and Resolved, That we part from him as Executive Secretary with the greatest regret and extend to him our best wishes and confident assurance of his complete success in the new position to which he has been called, and urge him to continue, to the largest extent compatible with his new duties, his active interest in the cause of public health and in the work of this Association.
